Brno Underground

Only a few places in the Czech Republic can boast such an exceptional phenomenon as this extensive labyrinth of underground corridors, tunnels, crypts, and cellars.

Did you know that the remains of more than 50,000 bodies were found in the ossuary under St. James' Church?

Or that the corridors, including the emergency exits, in the 10-Z Bunker are nearly 600 metres long?

Come with us and explore history through five sites in the Brno Underground!

LABYRINTH UNDER THE VEGETABLE MARKET

Unique and secret recesses of medieval corridors and cellars underneath one of the oldest squares in Brno. This walk through history will show you how the cellars were used when they were created and introduce you to important figures in Brno's history. The tour involves conquering 212 stairs.

An extensive section of the underground located in the lower part of the square is designated for social use. It can be rented for cultural, culinary, and other events.

THE CELLAR UNDER THE NEW TOWN HALL

A beautiful and mysterious place beneath the New Town Hall and Dominican Square (Dominikánské náměstí) offers a new multimedia exhibition on legends from Brno called Fiery Horse and Dragon (Ohnivý kůň a drak), after two animals featured in local legends. Animations will show you what the city used to look like and you can experience what it was like to be in Brno during the bombardment by Swedish cannons in 1645.

OSSUARY AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The second-largest ossuary in Europe. It was probably established in the 17th century as a set of three burial chambers. This complex contains more than 50,000 human remains from the Thirty Years' War and the Swedish Siege as well as victims of cholera and plague epidemics.

DENIS BUNKER

900 metres of vaulted passages, cut into the rock below Petrov Hill. A system of passages, intersecting at right angles. In the event of a nuclear attack, it would have been possible to survive inside the shelter for up to 4 days. In terms of water, electricity and a breathable air mixture, the shelter was self-sufficient. Cramped spaces could have provided refuge for up to 3000 inhabitants.

WATER TANKS IN ŽLUTÝ KOPEC

WATER TANKS AND BASTION AT ŠPILBERK

10-Z BUNKER

CAPUCHIN CRYPT

The grass-grown area on Yellow Hill (Žlutý kopec) covers historical water tanks. For centuries, the city utilized water from the Svratka river; despite extension of the water supply in 1853, the quantity and quality of the supplied water were no longer sufficient. Therefore, in 1863, a competition was announced for construction of a new water supply. Construction of the water treatment plant on Yellow Hill started in 1869 and was completed in 1872. These underground halls give the impression of another world of civilizations lost long ago.

Špilberk Castle invites you to its unique underground spaces: the repaired water reservoirs, which originally supplied the city of Brno with water (and now houses a lapidary), and the bastion – an impressive example of fortress construction in earlier times.

10-Z is the code name for supposedly the most secret bunker in Brno from the time of communism, meant for municipal and regional representatives. It was originally built during the Nazi occupation as a civil defense (Luftschutz) shelter to protect from American and Soviet bombardment of Brno. This important technical monument has its own water supply, electricity generator, and telephone switchboard. You will receive a map at the entrance and can set out on your own to explore the winding tunnels.

On the picturesque square in the heart of Brno, you will find a Capuchin church and a crypt below it, which in the years 1656–1784 was used to bury the order's brothers and benefactors. An ingenious ventilation system that kept the crypt well ventilated for centuries caused the bodies of the deceased to mummify naturally. A number of original Baroque painted coffins are also preserved here.
